17 Petitioner James H. Cunningham, a state prisoner proceeding
18 pro se and in forma pauperis, filed a Petition for Writ of Habeas 19 Corpus [doc. no. 1] on November 13, 2007, and an Amended Petition 20 [doc. no. 19] was filed nunc pro tunc to March 3, 2008. Cunningham 21 also submitted a Motion for Legal Counsel for the Incompetent [doc.
22 no. 10], filed nunc pro tunc to January 9, 2008. Petitioner claims 23 he is currently suffering from a serious mental and emotional 24 illness, for which he is prescribed medication, that renders him 25 incompetent to litigate his Amended Petition. (Mot. for Legal 26 Counsel 1, 4.) The Motion was accompanied by copies of his prison 27 medical records. (See id. Attach.) The records show Cunningham 28 has received psychiatric care in prison since 2005, and he was

1 prescribed psychiatric medications intermittently for eight years
2 before he was incarcerated. (Id. pt. 1, at 68-69.)<sup>1</sup>

3 The Court construed Petitioner's Motion as a request for a 4 competency hearing and the appointment of a guardian ad litem.
5 (See Order Requiring Additional Info. [doc. no. 15] 3.) After 6 reviewing Petitioner's Motion and supporting medical records, the 7 Court concluded that Cunningham had not produced substantial 8 evidence of incompetence. The Court ordered Petitioner to submit 9 any additional information, including declarations and exhibits, 10 demonstrating he currently suffers from a mental illness that 11 prevents him from litigating this case. (Id. at 6.) Specifically, 12 the Court noted that it needed current medical records because the 13 last record submitted to the Court was dated October 16, 2007.
14 (Id.)

15 In accordance with the Order, Cunningham filed a supplemental 16 Request for Appointment of Counsel for the Incompetent and Mentally 17 Ill [doc. no. 23] on March 24, 2008. The supplemental document was 18 accompanied by the same medical records that Cunningham previously 19 submitted to the Court. Respondent did not file a response.

20 I. Petitioner Is Not Entitled to Appointed Counsel Under Rule 21 17(c) Because He Has Not Produced Substantial Evidence of 22 Incompetence.

23 Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(c), the Court 24 "shall appoint a guardian ad litem for an . . . incompetent person

26 <sup>1</sup> Cunningham's Motion for Legal Counsel [doc. no. 10] is lengthy, so 27 it was split into four parts before it was electronically scanned and 28 placed on the docket. The document is not consecutively paginated.
Accordingly, the Court will cite to the Motion by first listing the part, then the page numbers supplied by the electronic case filing system.
Petitioner's supplemental Request for Appointment of Counsel [doc. no.
23] and his Amended Petition [doc. no. 19] will be similarly cited.

1 not otherwise represented in an action or shall make such other 2 order as it deems proper for the protection of the . . .
3 incompetent person." Fed. R. Civ. P. 17(c); see R. Governing 4 Habeas Corpus Cases 11 (stating that the rules of federal procedure 5 apply in habeas cases to the extent they are not inconsistent with 6 habeas corpus statutes or rules).

7 In Allen v. Calderon, 408 F.3d 1150, 1154 (9th Cir. 2005), the 8 Ninth Circuit held that "the district court abused its discretion 9 in dismissing the petition for failure to prosecute without first 10 holding a competency hearing or otherwise considering his claim." 11 It explained that where a pro se petitioner submits "substantial 12 evidence" of his incompetence, the district court should hold a 13 competency hearing to determine whether the petitioner is 14 "competent under an appropriate standard for habeas petitioners."
15 Allen, 408 F.3d at 1153-54. Although the court did not specify 16 what constitutes "substantial evidence" of incompetence or what is 17 the "appropriate standard," it gave some guidance.

18 In Allen, the petitioner submitted his sworn declaration and a 19 declaration from a fellow inmate which stated that Allen was 20 mentally impaired and did not understand the court's orders. Id.
21 at 1151. He also submitted a letter from a prison psychiatrist
22 which stated that Allen was in the Enhanced Outpatient Program 23 ("EOP") at the prison, had been "diagnosed with Chronic 24 Undifferentiated Schizophrenia and [was] taking two psychotropic 25 medications." Id. at 1151-52. Allen filed a second declaration in 26 support of a motion for appointment of counsel in which he stated 27 that he suffered from a "'debilitating mental illness that requires 28 a course of treatment that includes the use of various psychotropic

1 medications'" and that the mental illness combined with the 2 medications "'severely [hinder] his ability to comprehend or 3 correctly respond to the determinations and Orders made by the 4 Court.'" Allen, 408 F.3d at 1152. The Ninth Circuit concluded 5 that this was sufficient to require the district court to make a 6 determination as to Allen's competency by appointing counsel and 7 conducting a competency hearing. Allen, 408 F.3d at 1153-54.

8 Attached to Cunningham's original Motion are copies of his 9 prison medical records. (See Mot. for Legal Counsel [doc. no.
10 10].) The records show that Petitioner has received psychiatric 11 care since he was incarcerated in 2005. When he was evaluated on 12 April 4, 2005, soon after he began serving his sentence, he 13 reported to the psychiatrist that he had previously taken 14 psychotropic medications intermittently for eight years. (Id. pt.
15 1, at 68-69.) He was diagnosed with a nonspecified mood disorder 16 and prescribed Prozac and Remeron. (Id. at 69.) The doctor noted 17 that his thinking was logical, and his IQ was within normal limits.
18 (Id.)

19 Petitioner was seen by psychiatrists regularly thereafter. On 20 May 18, 2005, his doctor added a prescription for Seroquel. (Id.
21 at 66.) His prescription for Prozac was discontinued at some 22 point, and he was prescribed the antidepressant Wellbutrin in July 23 2006. (Id. pt. 3, at 17.) He continued with this medication 24 regimen and regular doctor visits throughout 2006. (See id. pt. 1, 25 at 10-15.)

26 Cunningham was evaluated on January 17, 2007, for a renewal of 27 his treatment plan. (Id. at 25.) He reported feeling depressed 28 and paranoid and having some suicidal thoughts and difficulty

1 sleeping. (Id. at 29.) Petitioner was diagnosed with a depressive
2 disorder and a nonspecific psychotic disorder. (Id. at 29, 70.)
3 Nevertheless, his thought processes and all areas of cognition were 4 within normal limits, including intellectual functioning, 5 concentration, attention, and memory. (Id. at 71.) His Global 6 Assessment of Functioning ("GAF") was sixty-four. (Id. at 72.) A 7 GAF between sixty-one and seventy "reflects mild symptoms or 'some 8 difficulty'" in the areas of social or occupational functioning, 9 "but the individual 'generally functions pretty well.'" Sims v.
10 Barnhart, 309 F.3d 424, 427 (7th Cir. 2002) (quoting Am.
11 Psychiatric Ass'n, Diagnostic & Statistical Manual of Mental 12 Disorders 30 (4th ed. 1994)). The doctor prescribed Seroquel for 13 psychosis, Wellbutrin for depression, and Vistaril for insomnia.
14 (Mot. for Legal Counsel, pt. 1, at 70.)

15 Cunningham continued with regular psychiatric visits
16 throughout 2007. (See id. pt. 2, at 14-28.) On August 21, 2007, 17 he was seen for a one-on-one psychiatric follow-up. (Id. pt. 2, at 18 16.) The doctor noted, "he has adjusted to program as well as 19 school assignments, he is making high scores on tests/assignments." 20 (Id.) At the next visit on September 4, 2007, the doctor noted that 21 Cunningham was "overall, more relaxed, less paranoid . . . ." (Id.
22 at 15.) The doctor also indicated that Petitioner was taking his 23 medications as prescribed. (Id.)

24 Cunningham returned to the doctor on October 16, 2007. (Id.
25 at 14.) At this visit, he complained of depression and anxiety 26 over "legal stuff." (Id.) He was informed that the California
27 Department of Corrections was discontinuing the use of Wellbutrin 28 on November 1, 2007, so he would have to be prescribed a different

1 antidepressant medication. (Id.) Cunningham stated that he did
2 not want a different antidepressant. (Id.)

3 The Court does not have any records after October 16, 2007, so 4 it is unclear whether Petitioner is currently taking antidepressant 5 medication, what his current mental state is, or whether he is 6 currently suffering from anything that hinders his ability to 7 represent himself in this case. Cunningham was due for another 8 review and an update of his treatment plan on January 17, 2008.
9 (Id. pt. 1, at 70.) Although the Court issued an order on February 10 21, 2008, directing Petitioner to submit current medical records, 11 and a supplemental Request for Appointment of Counsel was filed on 12 March 24, 2008, Cunningham has not provided any records after 13 October 16, 2007.

14 The records submitted demonstrate that Petitioner suffers from 15 depression and anxiety, and he has been regularly prescribed 16 antidepressant medication while he has been in prison.
17 Nevertheless, his doctors consistently indicated that his cognition 18 and thought processes were within normal limits, he was focused and 19 coherent, and he had only mild limitations in social functioning.
20 (See, e.g., id. pt. 1, at 29, 32, 41-42, 70-72.)

21 There is no evidence that Cunningham has difficulty 22 understanding or responding to the Court's orders. His medical 23 records suggest the opposite. Because Petitioner has not presented 24 substantial evidence of incompetence, his request for the 25 appointment of counsel or a guardian ad litem based on Cunningham's 26 mental condition is DENIED without prejudice.

27

28

1 II. Petitioner Is Not Entitled to Appointed Counsel.

2 In addition to asserting that he is mentally incompetent, 3 Petitioner also contends that the interests of justice require that 4 counsel be appointed to represent him because he lacks the 5 necessary legal knowledge to represent himself. (Supplemental Req.
6 for Counsel [doc. no. 23] 3-4.)

7 The Sixth Amendment right to counsel does not extend to 8 federal habeas corpus actions by state prisoners. Coleman v.
9 Thompson, 501 U.S. 722, 756-57 (1991); McCleskey v. Zant, 499 U.S.
10 467, 495 (1991); Chaney v. Lewis, 801 F.2d 1191, 1196 (9th Cir.
11 1986); Knaubert v. Goldsmith, 791 F.2d 722, 728 (9th Cir. 1986).
12 Financially eligible habeas petitioners seeking relief pursuant to 13 28 U.S.C. § 2254 may obtain representation whenever "the court 14 determines that the interests of justice so require." 18 U.S.C.A.
15 § 3006A(a)(2)(B) (West Supp. 2007); Terrovona v. Kincheloe, 912
16 F.2d 1176, 1181 (9th Cir. 1990); Bashor v. Risley, 730 F.2d 1228, 17 1234 (9th Cir. 1984); Hoggard v. Purkett, 29 F.3d 469, 471 (8th 18 Cir. 1994).

19 The interests of justice require appointment of counsel when 20 counsel is "necessary for effective utilization of discovery 21 procedures" and whenever the court conducts an evidentiary hearing 22 on a petition. 28 U.S.C.A. Rs. 6(a), 8(c) foll. § 2254 (West 23 2006); see Knaubert, 791 F.2d at 728; Abdullah v. Norris, 18 F.3d 24 571, 573 (8th Cir. 1994). The appointment of counsel is otherwise 25 discretionary. See Terrovona, 912 F.2d at 1177; Knaubert, 791 F.2d 26 at 728; Abdullah, 18 F.3d at 573.

27 In the Ninth Circuit, "[i]ndigent state prisoners applying for 28 habeas corpus relief are not entitled to appointed counsel unless

1 the circumstances of a particular case indicate that appointed 2 counsel is necessary to prevent due process violations." Chaney, 3 801 F.2d at 1196; see also Knaubert, 791 F.2d at 728-29. A due 4 process violation may occur in the absence of counsel if the issues
5 involved are too complex for the petitioner. Bonin v. Vasquez, 999 6 F.2d 425, 428-29 (9th Cir. 1993).

7       Cunningham asserts that he needs to be provided with appointed 8 counsel because he has been unsuccessful at litigating his habeas 9 petition as a layman who lacks legal knowledge. (Supplemental Req.
10 for Counsel [doc. no. 23] 4.) After reviewing the pleadings, the 11 Court finds that Petitioner has adequately presented his claims for 12 relief in the Amended Petition, which was prepared with the 13 assistance of another inmate. (See Am. Pet. pt. 2, at 70; Am. Pet.
14 Ex. G, at 1-2.) The Amended Petition contains a recitation of 15 relevant facts with citations to the applicable portions of the 16 Reporter's Transcript for each claim. (See, e.g., Am. Pet. pt. 1, 17 at 7-16.) Each claim also includes legal argument and citations to 18 caselaw and other supporting authority. (See, e.g., id. pt. 1, at 19 17-18.) The level of detail and clarity of Cunningham's Amended 20 Petition is sufficient for the Court to understand the claims being 21 presented. This weighs against the appointment of counsel. See 22 Bashor, 730 F.2d at 1234 (denying appointed counsel where 23 petitioner thoroughly presented the issues in his petition and 24 memorandum of law).

25       "The procedures employed by the federal courts are highly 26 protective of a pro se petitioner's rights. The district court is 27 required to construe a pro se petition more liberally than it would 28 construe a petition drafted by counsel." Knaubert, 791 F.2d at 729

1 (citing Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519, 520 (1972) (holding pro se 2 complaint to less stringent standard) (per curiam)); Bashor, 730
 3 F.2d at 1234. The Court will review Cunningham's pro se Amended 4 Petition more liberally than a petition drafted by counsel.

5 Additionally, "[t]he district court must scrutinize the state 6 court record independently to determine whether the state court 7 procedures and findings were sufficient." Knaubert, 791 F.2d at 8 729; Richmond v. Ricketts, 774 F.2d 957, 961 (9th Cir. 1985); 9 Rhinehart v. Gunn, 598 F.2d 557, 558 (9th Cir. 1979) (per curiam); 10 Turner v. Chavez, 586 F.2d 111, 112 (9th Cir. 1978) (per curiam).
 11 Even when the district court accepts a state court's factual 12 findings, it must render an independent legal conclusion regarding 13 the legality of a petitioner's incarceration. Miller v. Fenton, 14 474 U.S. 104, 112 (1985). The district court's legal conclusion, 15 moreover, will receive de novo appellate review. Hayes v.
 16 Kincheloe, 784 F.2d 1434, 1436 (9th Cir. 1986).

17 The assistance counsel provides is valuable. "An attorney may 18 narrow the issues and elicit relevant information from his or her 19 client. An attorney may highlight the record and present to the 20 court a reasoned analysis of the controlling law." Knaubert, 791 21 F.2d at 729. But, as the court in Knaubert noted, "unless an 22 evidentiary hearing is held, an attorney's skill in developing and 23 presenting new evidence is largely superfluous; the district court 24 is entitled to rely on the state court record alone." Id. (citing 25 Sumner v. Mata, 449 U.S. 539, 545-57 (1981); 28 U.S.C. § 2254(d)).<sup>2</sup>

26
 27 <sup>2</sup> If the Court determines that an evidentiary hearing is appropriate 28 in this case, it may properly exercise its discretion to hold an evidentiary hearing, and counsel will be appointed. See Rule 8, 28
 U.S.C. foll. § 2254.

1 Because this Court denies Petitioner's motion for appointment of 2 counsel, it must "review the record and render an independent legal 3 conclusion." Id. Moreover, because the Court does not appoint 4 counsel, it must "inform itself of the relevant law. Therefore, 5 the additional assistance provided by attorneys, while significant, 6 is not compelling." Id.

7 For these reasons, the "interests of justice" in this matter 8 do not compel the appointment of counsel at this stage of 9 Cunningham's case. Accordingly, Petitioner's request for 10 appointment of counsel is DENIED without prejudice.

11 IT IS SO ORDERED.
